Conf. No.: 6842

IN THE SPECIFICATION

Please amend the abstract as shown below.

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to a current source adapted A current source, adapted to generate a current proportional to absolute temperature which has a greatly reduced supply voltage dependence and is still able to operate at low operating voltages. This is achieved by the incorporation of a compensation resistor through which [[the]] a start-up current is passed.